Executive Summary

The Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 (AODA) is a law passed by the Ontario legislature that is intended to facilitate full accessibility throughout the Province of Ontario for persons with disabilities by 2025.

The AODA will achieve this aim by developing, implementing and regulating Accessibility Standards that will guide the principles and requirements of creating accessibility in the following areas:

- customer service
- information and communications
- transportation
- built environment
- employment

Accessibility Standards will be established by regulation under the Act and will be coordinated with staggering deadlines. It is important to note that 2025 is a proposed end date and obligated organizations will be required to meet accessibility requirements with much earlier timelines.

The first regulated accessibility standard established under the authority of AODA is the Accessibility Standards for Customer Service, Ontario Regulation 429/07, which came into effect on January 1, 2008 and requires compliance by January 1, 2012. In summary, the Regulation requires the creation of an accessible customer service policy and training of all staff, agents and volunteers who provide goods and services on behalf of CF Shops at Don Mills.

The second regulated accessibility standard established under the AODA is the Integrated Accessibility Standard, Ontario Regulation O. Reg. 191/11. The Integrated Standard was introduced on June 7, 2011. The Integrated Standard has staggered deadlines beginning in January 2012 and ending in June 2025. This Standard includes the following areas:

- Information and Communications
- Employment
- Transportation (not applicable to Cadillac Fairview) and
- Design of Public Spaces – O. Reg. 413/12
